REPORT OF THE COUNCIL OF THE
ETHNOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF LONDON.

MAY 1867.

THE Council can, as on the preceding anniversary, report the satisfactory condition of the Society during the year which is just completed. The accession of new members has been greater than in any one year for some years past, and the increase of the Society's numbers has been considerably greater than during previous years. The number of Fellows who have retired during the year is very small. The following new Fellows have been elected since the anniversary of 1866.

The papers read and discussed at the public meetings have been quite equal in character to those of preceding years ; and the Council has the satisfaction to report that the last annual volume of Transactions has met with general approval, and that its sale to the public is becoming a valuable item in the Society's receipts. The papers read since the anniversary meeting in 1866, and the exhibitions which have led to discussions, have been—

It is hardly necessary to say more than that additions have been made both to the Museum and to the Library, and that it is proposed to proceed with the printing of a catalogue of the latter with the beginning of the new year. The Council has again to congratulate the Society on the flourishing state of its finances. The balance of the Treasurer's account is larger in fact even than that of the preceding year.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

Six years have passed since your indulgence first placed me in the chair of this Society, and now at the close of my third term of office, I think it will be satisfactory to you that I submit a brief retrospect of our career from the time in question. With this view, I shall compare the present state of the Society, not with its state immediately before 1860, which was one of considerable decadence, but with its condition in 1846, three years after its foundation, when it was considered to be prospering. In so far as finance is concerned, our income in that year £299 : 12 : 9, and our expenditure £253 : 2 : 4, left a balance with the Treasurer of £46 : 10 : 5, but the expenditure did not include what is the largest item of our present outlay, the cost of printing a volume of Transactions.

Our present income, arising mainly from increase of Fellows, is £464 : 9 : 10, and our expenditure £318 : 13 : 8, leaving in the Treasurer's hands a surplus of £145 : 16 : 2. In 1846 the subscriptions and compositions amounted to £180 : 4 ; and in the present year they were £285 : 1. To our income at present are to be added the profits of the sale of our Transactions, an item which had no existence before 1861.

During the first thirteen years of the Society there were published four volumes of Transactions under the name of a "Journal," containing in all 1,269 pages. In the six years from 1861, we have published five volumes, making 1,968 pages, and thus the extent of our publication has been multiplied above three-fold. Our Transactions, I am glad to be able to report, are so favourably received by the public that the profits arising from the few we are able to spare are equivalent to the subscriptions of fifteen town, or thirty country members. I may add that a sixth volume is in an advanced state of readiness, and will be published before the end of the year.

Our meetings have been well attended, while the discussions which have followed the reading of papers have been animated, and, I hope, instructive, the public taking such an interest in our proceedings that the press renders an adequate account of them without any effort at publication on our own part. As to the supply of papers, I have great pleasure in stating that it is ample, and indeed, at present, far beyond what can be read in the short remainder of the current Session, even if we should be obliged to have recourse to one, or even to two extra meetings in July.

I think, then, that I may safely congratulate you on the success which has attended the course we have been pursuing, and which leaves no cause for envying the prosperity of any association of the same character with our own, foreign or domestic.
